

The World and Me

Description:

The programme is intended to develop a sense of independence, self-awareness and consideration for our environment. We work around a theme of adaptability in all aspects of learning including studies on how fauna and flora adapt to environments, how we can adapt to reduce our impact and adapting to working well with others while respecting everyone's opinions and backgrounds.

There are four core activities namely:

- Bushwalking – For experiential learning, questioning, researching and documenting
- Obstacle course – For team work, balance, fitness, strength and courage
- Catch-and-release fishing - For fun, team bonding, sight-seeing and...wait... patience
- Baobab climbing - For encouragement, acknowledgement and a real sense of achievement

Aside from these there is also a range of interactive lessons that take place, focused on sustainable use of resources, reducing our impact on the Earth and deeper understanding and appreciation of the natural environment around us.
